

ABSTRACT

A process is provided for converting a pressurized methane-rich vapor at a first pressure to a predetermined second pressure higher than the first pressure. A pressurized liquid rich in methane is passed to an eductor to provide the motive energy for driving the eductor. The methane-rich vapor is passed to the eductor and mixed with the liquid.